Prompt Help For A Listless Child

Scolding won't help a boy or girl who is listless, dull or cross from constipation. But, here's something that will!

If sluggish bowels have your child headachy, bilious, upset, give him a little Syrup of Black-Draught tonight. Like the original famed BLACK-DRAUGHT, its principal ingredient is an intestinal tonic-laxative. Helps impart tone to the bowel muscles.

Children like the taste of Syrup of Black-Draught. It is an all vegetable product. When simple directions are followed, its action is gentle, but prompt and complete. Comes in two sizes: 50c and $1.

Bang's Disease On Way Out In Virginia

The Old Dominion continues to maintain its lead over all the other states in the control of Bangs disease, the contagious infection that causes abortion in cattle. Officials of the State department of agriculture have been informed by the Federal Bureau of animal industry that 59 Virginia counties will be designated as "modified accredited Bangs disease-free areas" as of September 1. Of the 41 counties still unaccredited, 31 have made such progress that they may be added to the cleared area within the year, it was stated as Richmond. Virginia has made a drive against Bangs disease since 1934 in cooperation with the Federal government. It has been estimated that the goal for the State as a whole can be reached at an additional cost to the Commonwealth of $290,000. Of this sum, $190,000 would be spent in the ten counties in which so little work has been done, while the remaining $100,000 would be used for re-testing in the other 31 unfinished areas. It has been estimated that in the in the ten counties there are 120,000 cattle requiring to be tested.

Rural Youth Being Aided by Program

Joe Doe Jr., and his sister, Jill... Virginia's average rural boy and average rural girl... are telling their problems to representatives of various public agencies this summer who are undertaking the most comprehensive survey of youth ever made in this state.

The Virginia Rural Youth Survey is expected to furnish facts of value in developing long-time policies for such agencies as the Department of Education, National Youth Administration, Extension Service, Farm Security Administration, Employment Service and others engaged in the study with the Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station and WPA.

An analysis will be made of statewide records of agencies working with Virginia young people. In addition, field enumerators are interviewing out-of-school youth of the ages of 16 through 24 years in around twenty-four sample communities.

These communities were chosen, according to Dr. W. E. Garnett, Experiment Station rural sociologist, who is directing the survey, as typical of the state's various farming, fishing and party- industrial situations. Negro and white youth are included, but in separate communities.

Counties with sample communities include: Grayson, Dickenson, Rockingham, Richmond, Southampton, Fredrick, Henry, Cumberland, Powhatan, Montgomery, Pittsylvania, Northumberland, Buckingham, Albemarle, Lancaster, Caroline and Chesterfield.

One of the chief purposes of the study is to find out about the employment situation for young people ...whether they are getting jobs and how well their education is fitting them for what they want to do.

Five Soil Camps To Be Moved In Virginia

Five CCC camps engaged in erosion control work in Virginia will be relocated October 1, according to an announcement by Lyman Carrier, state coordinator of the Soil Conservation Service, sent to county farm agents of the Virginia Agricultural Extension Division.

The change of locatio n of the camps is in accordance with a new policy of the Soil Conservation Service providing for removal of camps after two years in one location. Where possible, the camps will be transferred to soil conservatio, districts or proposed districts.

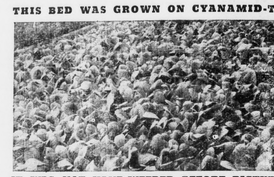
LET CHEMISTRY WEED YOUR TOBACCO PLANT BEDS

It Costs Less! It Produces Better Plants!

Burning, Steaming and Hand-Weeding Are NOT Necessary

THIS BED WAS GROWN ON CYANAMID-TREATED SOIL



IT WAS NOT HAND-WEEDED BEFORE PICTURE WAS TAKEN

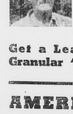
The science of chemistry has given you fertilizers to grow your crops and sprays to protect them from disease. Now it gives you a method of weed control in tobacco plant beds which is much better and cheaper than the old methods.

Granular 'Aero' Cyanamid, applied to tobacco plant beds in the fall, kills the weed seeds in the soil. Within 60 to 90 days following application, it loses its killing properties so does not injure tobacco seeded after that waiting period.

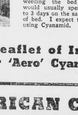
Men Who Have Tried It, Like It

Joe MacLipscomb, Springfield, Tenn.—I have found the 'Aero' Cyanamid way of preparing tobacco seed beds to be the most economical way. I plan to use it exclusively in the preparation of my tobacco beds.

John Flowers, Moultrie, Ga. —I used one lb. of Granular 'Aero' Cyanamid to the square yard on a new bed, and had good weed control. On an old bed the Cyanamid treatment controlled most of the weeds. Cyanamid pays, and I plan to use it next year.



J. L. Gatts, Rt. 2, Blackstone, Va.—Last fall I used 600 lbs. of Granular 'Aero' Cyanamid on 600 yds. of tobacco plant bed land. In the spring I spent only 2½ hours weeding the bed where I formerly would spend from 2 to 3 days of the same amount of bed. I expect to continue using Cyanamid.



A. A. DeLong, R. 1, Nicholasville, Ky.—I burned some beds of tobacco plants with others, at the rate of 120 lbs. to a 100 x 12 bed. The Cyanamid-treated beds surpass the well-burned beds. They had earlier and stronger plants.

I certainly recommend this method, and will use Cyanamid again this fall.
